

REPORT FROM 1ST PROJECT MEETING IN TEROR, GRAN CANARIA, SPAIN TUESDAY 17th DECEMBER 2019

In the morning, we met at the school and took a bus to Las Palmas to see the city and its sights and learn about the culture of our host country. We started the day with a pleasant walk along the promenade around the beach, typical for artists creating huge sand sculptures there.

Most of all we were impressed by the huge sand nativity scene made by the masters from all over the world. We visited it and the guide told us various interesting things about it. The nativity scene is built every year, the city invites the world's best sculptors and they work together to create sand sculptures. The statues have a wooden structure inside and have to be sprinkled with water so that they hold their shape and don't fall apart. The sculptures' greatest enemy is the wind. Every year thousands of people from the surrounding villages and tourists come to see the sand nativity scene.

We saw scenes of the three kings' adoration, shepherds with their sheep, the council of the elders and an exact scale replica of the buildings in the town. Everyone loved the nativity scene and we couldn't understand how someone could create something so beautiful out of ordinary sand.

REPORT FROM 1ST PROJECT MEETING IN TEROR, GRAN CANARIA, SPAIN

TUESDAY 17th DECEMBER 2019

Then we went to enjoy the view of the house where Christopher Columbus stayed the night before he set out to discover America. We also visited the cathedral and the main square. We walked around the city and in a relaxed atmosphere headed home - by bus back to the school in the town of Teror.

My hostess Ainhoa went to a dancing class and so I spent an hour and a half with Lída and her hostess Andrea in the park.

After the end of the Ainhoa class, we headed together to the meeting point at the bus stop. We went with Ainhoa to Las Palmas to meet her two friends with Bětka and a few other project participants and we headed to the amusement park. In their enthusiasm, the Spaniards probably didn't realize that we were a bit bored and mostly afraid to go on the rides. After dinner, I fell into bed and fell asleep right away because it had been a very busy day.
